Tom is a seasoned executive vice president at Younger Partners, with a career spanning over three decades in the commercial real estate industry. Since 1989, he has cultivated his expertise across various categories of land and investment property transactions. Tom's illustrious journey began with the Henry S. Miller Company, where he dedicated 15 years of his career, establishing a strong foundation in the industry. His passion and commitment to excellence led him to become a partner at Novus Realty Advisors, which subsequently merged with Younger Partners in 2017.

Throughout his career, Tom's outstanding contributions have earned him consistent recognition as an annual Top Ten Producer. His remarkable achievements have spanned multiple years and transcended various roles, with several instances where he claimed the coveted #1 Top Producer title. Tom's impressive track record and unwavering dedication continue to make him a driving force in the world of commercial real estate, a true exemplar of expertise in his field.
